About the Provider:

Jennifer Yeung, DO, became a doctor to help people live better lives. She chose to specialize in Female Pelvic Medicine and Reconstructive Surgery when she experienced first-hand the impact urogynecologists can have on a woman's life, enhancing her well-being as a whole.

Making patients feel comfortable is a priority for Dr. Yeung, especially given that the conditions she treats are private matters and can be difficult to discuss with a physician. She wants to offer a safe environment, free from judgment, so that patients can discuss their concerns and fears openly. She believes that women should talk about these conditions so they can be reassured that others suffer from similar problems and learn more about their own conditions.

Dr. Yeung is excited to develop patient-practitioner relationships that offer a "whole-patient" approach to health and illness. Using minimally invasive techniques to reduce surgical healing times and surgical risk, Dr. Yeung also offers the most up-to-date surgical and technological advances in Urogynecology.

Married with one child, Dr. Yeung is a member of The 50 of the Contemporary Arts Center and Crossroads Church. She enjoys traveling, yoga and running.
