TriHealth in the News: Leveraging Population Health to Individualize Women’s Health Needs

- As shared in previous Weekly Updates, we are collaborating with the Cincinnati Business Courier on a series of monthly columns to help tell the story of how we are transforming healthcare for the better by delivering on the Triple Aim of better care, better health, and better value.
- These columns are intended to educate employers and the business community about our nation’s broken healthcare system, why and how we can do better, and what TriHealth and our physician community are doing to lead the way locally and nationally.

- We also highlight how this work benefits area businesses through healthier employees, improved productivity, and a healthier bottom line.
- In the latest Getting Health Care Right column, which I co-authored with Dr. Kristin Coppage, System Chief for Women’s Services, we explore how a “one-size-fits-all” approach to employee health and wellness benefits and offerings often fail to meet the needs of our diverse patient population and fall short of achieving the intended return on these significant employer investments.
- For example, the health needs of women – who represent nearly half of all workers in the United States - are significantly different than men. By understanding the needs and the differences of segments of our community, we can offer the right care to the right people in the right way at the right time to create the right and best outcomes, always.
- This is the overarching philosophy of TriHealth’s leading population health model of care, which brings to life our bold vision to Get Healthcare Right for ALL those we serve - patients, providers, employers, payers and communities as a whole. And that philosophy is that we work hard every day to deliver the right care in the right place in the right way to produce the right clinical outcomes at the right cost. And the “right care” often varies from patient population to patient population, making individualized care essential to our care delivery model!!! Going for Gold: Kicking Off the 2024 One Campaign

- The One Campaign – our annual, unified system-wide fundraising campaign – is off to a strong start with encouraging early participation from our team members and physicians during last week’s “early bird” phase. And there are even more fun Olympic-themed events, activities and giving opportunities in the coming weeks. So let the games begin!!!

- Don’t forget, every team member who donates $25 or more by September 26 will have the chance to order this limited edition One Campaign t-shirt (while shirts are available), compliments of TriHealth, as a special thank you!
- No matter the amount, your donation to the One Campaign will help make TriHealth and our larger community better. So please consider joining me in making a pledge today by visiting TriHealth.com/One or by scanning the QR code to the right to donate.

Mark Your Calendar for the Next Team Member Town Hall, September 17

- Be sure to join us next Tuesday, September 17 at noon on Bridge for our September Team Member Town Hall livestream.
- We will share highlights of our work to Get Healthcare Right, celebrate wins, discuss challenges facing our industry and how we are responding, and answer your questions – with some fun TriHealth prizes for those who join the conversation!

Last weekend’s record turnout at Kings Island was just the latest proof point that whether we are celebrating our people or advancing our work to Get Healthcare Right, when we come together and work together, no one does it better than TriHealth!!! Thank you for everything you do every day to help TriHealth and our team be the best we can be for each other and all those we serve... always!
